HENDERSON'S SPEECH

On the Bankruptcy Bill-Provisions of the Constitution Conferring Upon Conwer to Pass Such a Law. WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 17,-Hon. D. B. Henderson, of Iowa, made the principal argument in the house yesterday in support of the bankrupter bill. He traced the subject historically; referred to the provisions of the federal constitution conferring upon Congress the power to pass such a law; briefly stated, the principles of the subject and tersely set out in detail the provisions of the bill favorably reported. He spoke of the necessity for the enactment of the bill and the demand for it, which had been made up on Congress by the people and anticipated with confidence, that its enactment would be followed by beneficial results to millions of individuals and to all commercial industrial and professional transactions.

tital and professional transactions.

He was particularly forceful in his denuciation of an attempt which he said is being made in the interest of sel-shners to wrongfully create a feeling of sectonalism among the people, upon this subject. Confidence, he said, was essential to the credit system; that confidence would be greatly strengthened and credit extended in consequence of the passage of the pending bill which would supercede the adverse state insolvency laws. He pointed out the fact that his committee is dominated by western and southwestern men, and that it is overwhelmingly in favor of the bill reported. In his opinion the debtor classes of the country would be benefited by untol millions of dolars as the result of the passage of the as the result of the passage of the law. General Henderson spoke of proceed General Henderson spoke of proceedings in bankruptcy as plain, simple and inexpensive. He gave in detail the steps to be taken by a voluntary bankrupt, who desired to secure the benefits of the bill; also the proceedings which would be taken in an involuntary case would be taken in an involuntary case of bankruptcy, and within what time the answer would be filed and where the trial would be had. He pointed out that after the adjudication in voluntary bankrupts, the rights of each of such bankrupts and the privileges of their reeditors would be identical. He states that the United States district courts would be original courts of bankruptcy; that the United States district courts would be original courts of bankruptey; that state courts would retain jurisdiction of litigation, the reason, therefore, being that great hardships would follow if all of the litigation incident to closing bankrupt estates was transferred to the United States courts, as was the case under the last bankruptey law, he pointed out the fact that the major part of bankruptey business will be conducted before referees, a large number of them will be appointed, so that there will be at least one in every county.

In summing up, General Henderson said: "In general terms it may be said that under the provisions of this bill the honest bankrupt will be treated with consideration and within a reasonable time be discharged. That the dishonest bankrupt will be explicitly charged with his wrong-doing, deliberately, tried and immediately punished. That the state will be as quickly reduced to cash as possible and distributed to the creditors. That creditors ted to the creditors. That creditors will have an opportunity at each stage of the proceedings to be heard in favor of the proceedings to be heard in favor of, or in opposition to any proposed pro-ceeding. That the claims of creditors will be carefully secutinized and such as are just will be promptly allowed at trivial expense, and such as are unjust will be rejected. The inexpensive arbi-trations and compromise will be substi-tuted for expensive litigation. And, all in all, that the misfortune of men, as relating to bankrunicy will be assuared relating to bankruptcy will be assuaged as far as possible The speaker stated emphatically that the bill favorably reported by the com-mittee would, if finally passed, constitute:

A law which will enable judges to be

A law which will enable judges to be just and juries to be merciful.

A law which will draw the line between housest and dishonest dobtors and grant to the former an honorable discharge and to the latter a term in the penitentiary.

tst debtor that he cannot be coerced in-to giving preferences or paying unjust claims by threats of attachments.

"Such a catastrophe to humanity laims indefeasible rights, and the rancours of politics are silenced. Every great calamity brings home to the two peoples divided though they be, by animosity, and rivalry, that they belong to one and the same family. Our noble hearted nation, seeing the victims of the Maine, forhears to think of its differences with the United States. To-morrow it will return to the defense of its rights against all. But, for to-day it feels only sincere and loyal compassion for the immense misfortune. BRYAN IS NOT JEFFERSONIAN. WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 17 .-Thomas Jefferson's birthday anniversary will be celebrated on April 13, by sary will be celebrated on April 13, by the National Association of Democratic clubs, with a subscription dinner in this city, which in nearly every respect will be a repetition of the famous dinner here in 1837. As was the case last year, Mr. Bryan will be the principal apeaker this year. He has already accepted the invitation of President Chauncey F. Black. The national association of Democratic clubs is now being thoroughly organized and no doubt will play an important part in the coming congressional campaign and this coming Jeffersonian celebration will likely

The fuction in wheat that threw the pit into fits in the last hour of yesterday's session was continued on the curb afterwards and was renewed to-day before the regular session commenced. First curb prices were 1½c higher at $1 0½ and during the half hour that followed it sold as high as $1 07½. The regular opening was as wild a one as has been witnessed in months. A perfect how went up from shorts who in their eagerness to cover their lines, bid all the way from $1 05 to $1 06 for May and a few seconds after some of the more anxious ones bid $1 06½. That proved to be the highest point of the day. Thousands of bushels were dumped on the market by longs, their lines and more disposition to realize being shown than at any time since the recent advance commenced. The consequence was the price broke with bewildering rapidity, getting down in less than five minutes to $1 03½. Then it rebounded again, but with less force behind it, to $1 0½. The market fluctuated rapidly for a time, but with every rally there was a renewed realking and the market generally became more settled. Though the disquieting news from Havana may have cut some figure in the jump, it was a minor factor and was little heard of. It was apparently a repetition of yesterday's scare among shorts over the Leiter deal and everybody was on the alert to see what he would do to-day. But Leiter's brokers were not much in evidence and the fact that there was plenty of wheat for sale at around $1 05 served to keep the market within bounds. About 11 o'clock selling became quite heavy and the low point, $1 03, was reached. Cuhady and others were credited with realizing on lines showing heavy profits and commission houses had heavy selling orders. This decline was followed by a reaction to $1 04½, the price about noon. For the rest of the session prices rather tended toward a lower level. Foreign markets were strong and showed good closing advances.

Northwest receipts were rather small at 250 cars, compared with 415 last week and 182 a year ago. Chicago recei

The most important fact in connection with to-day's stock market was the heavy liquidation of yesterday was not resumed. There was aggressive pressure by the bears at times, but they refrained from leaving their contracts open and their covering before the close brought prices back to near the high level of the day. Net gains resulted, fractional for the most part, but extending to a point in some cases. Quotations received this morning from London showed the prices of Americans there substantially above the closing prices here last night, but that simply meant that declines from yesterday's London closing had not fully reached yesterday afternoon's heavy declines here after the London exchange had closed. The buying in London which served to sustain prices was on cabled orders from New York and represented the covering of shorts put out in this market. The opening was at or near the London parity, but prices yielded immediately after the opening on liquidation sales through commission houses. Support was forthcoming before they fell to last night's close and the market rallied, but fell to the lowest before noon on the disquieting reports emanating from Key West that evidence had been discovered to show that the Maine had been destroyed by a torpedo or exploded outside the ship. The selling on this report was carried substantially below last night's close, but the subsequent rally indicated that these sales were largely by bears who were not sure of their position.
